DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, DEC. 24, 1833.

☞To morrow being Christmas, we will not issue a paper.

CITY ELECTIONS.—We publish to day the new act regulating the elections of Mayor and Councils.

NAVIGATION OF LAKE ERIE.—We have been politely favored with a letter from the Collector of the customs of the port of Cleveland, written in reply to another, inquiring at what time navigation is usually open in the spring at Cleveland and Buffalo—From which we make the following extract:—

"I have to state that vessels depart from Buffalo for Cleveland, as soon as the navigation will possibly permit, in the spring of the year, as the Erie Canal is first open. But it is not always in the first opening of navigation from Detroit to this place, that navigation commences between that place and this.

With these facts, and the following statement of arrivals at this place, in the spring of each year, from 1829 to 1833, from Detroit and Buffalo, taken from manifests on file, in this office, an opinion may be formed of the difference in the times of the opening of navigation at Buffalo, and at Cleveland.

In the year 1829, the first arrival from Detroit at Cleveland, April 10.
The 1st arrival from Buffalo at Cleveland, May 23.
In the year 1830, the first arrival from Detroit at Cleveland, April 3.
The 1st arrival from Buffalo at Cleveland, April 17.
In the year 1831, the first arrival from Detroit at Cleveland, March 29.
The 1st arrival from Buffalo at Cleveland, May 12.
In the year 1832, the first arrival from Detroit at Cleveland, March 28.
The 1st arrival from Buffalo at Cleveland, May 8.
In the year 1833, the first arrival from Detroit at Cleveland, April 2.
The 1st arrival from Buffalo at Cleveland, April 27.

The time consumed by vessels, in their voyage from Buffalo to Cleveland, in the spring of the year, does not exceed three days, and the voyage from Detroit at that season, does not exceed two days."

Here, then, it appears that vessels arrived at Cleveland, from Detroit, in 1831, six weeks and two days earlier than from Buffalo. That in 1830, the difference of time was the least, being only fourteen days, and the average difference for the five years was thirty four days.

It is calculated that the trip from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia will be made, in the spring, in eight or ten days—say nine, and allow five more from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, by the cross cut canal, and the whole trip, from Cleveland to Philadelphia, would be performed in fourteen days; being just the least difference of time of the arrivals at Cleveland from Buffalo and Detroit. So that produce would reach Philadelphia, from Detroit, by the Pennsylvania Canal, on the same day that, under the most favorable circumstances, and in the most favorable season, it could reach Buffalo.

On the other hand, if you take the average of five years, viz: thirty four days, as the difference, vessels would have a free navigation from the upper end of Lake Erie to Cleveland for nineteen days; and, even after the expiration of that time their cargoes could reach Philadelphia as soon as Buffalo.

Indeed, in these thirty four days of difference, produce could be sent from Cleveland to Philadelphia, be there sold, merchandise be purchased and sent to Cleveland, before Buffalo harbor would be accessible from above.

This view of the matter must, we think, remove all doubt as to the result of the controversy between Philadelphia and New York for the trade of Lake Erie.

As to the trade of the country along the Ohio Canal, and which is not necessarily compelled to cross the Lake, the argument is still stronger, but at present we have not leisure or space to press it.

A Supplement to an Act, entitled 'An Act to incorporate the City of Pittsburgh,' passed 18th March, 1816.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the present members of the select and common councils of the city of Pittsburgh, shall, on the first Tuesday of January next, and yearly thereafter, meet together, and divide the said city of Pittsburgh into four wards or districts, so as to make the number of taxable inhabitants of each ward of said city as nearly equal as may be, and the select and common council for the time being, are hereby authorized and required to fix the places of holding all general and city elections for the said wards, at such houses within the bounds of the respective wards, and not elsewhere; and to change the same as often as public convenience may require; and it shall not be lawful for any inhabitant of said city, to vote at any of said elections, except within the ward wherein he resides.

SECTION 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the freemen of each ward of said city, qualified to vote for members of the House of Representatives, of this Commonwealth, shall meet together, in their respective wards, on the second Tuesday of January, and yearly thereafter, and elect by ballot one person in each and every ward, qualified to serve as members of the House of Representatives, of this Commonwealth, to be a member of the Select Council, and who shall hold his office for the term of three years; and five persons, qualified as aforesaid, in each and every ward, to be members of the common council, who shall hold their office for the term of one year.

SECTION 3. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the citizens of said wards shall, on the second Tuesday of January next, and on the same day yearly thereafter, elect by ballot one of the aldermen of said city, or any citizen of the said city qualified to be elected a member of the House of Representatives of this commonwealth, to be mayor of said city: whose duty it shall be to promulgate the by laws, rules, and ordinances of the corporation, and specially to attend to the due execution and fulfilment of the same; and who shall be entitled to receive, hold, and enjoy all the emoluments which, by the laws and ordinances of the corporation, may then or hereafter be annexed or attached to the office of mayor. And the mayor elect shall take a solemn oath or affirmation before the president or an associate judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny county, or the Recorder of the said city for the time being, "well and faithfully to execute the office of mayor of said city," and shall thereupon enter upon and perform the duties of the said office without any other or further commission, and shall continue in office, until a successor shall be duly elected and qualified; and in cases of the death, resignation, or removal of the mayor, or other vacancy in the office, such vacancy shall be filled by a new election for the remainder of his term in office by the said councils, within fifteen days thereafter, and at least ten days notice shall be given in the public newspapers of said city, of the time of holding the same—Provided, That no member, for the time being, of the select or common council, shall be eligible to the office of mayor.

SECTION 4. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That so much of the second section of a law, passed the eighteenth day of March, eighteen hundred and sixteen, relating to the classification of the members of the Select Council of the city of Pittsburgh, shall be so altered as that the seats of the first class, that will be vacated on the first Tuesday of January next, shall be filled by the election of one from each ward, as is provided in the second section of this act; and the seats of the second class, whose seats will be vacated on the first Tuesday of January, eighteen hundred and thirty five, shall be filled by the election of four persons, agreeably to the aforesaid second section; and the seats of the third class, whose seats will be vacated on the first Tuesday of January, eighteen hundred and thirty six, shall be filled by the election of four persons, agreeably to the said second section of the said act.

CONGRESS.

Thursday, December 19.—In the Senate, Mr. Mangum, of North Carolina, rose and said, it was with profound regret that he felt himself impelled by a sense of duty to call the attention of the Senate to a subject, involving considerations of a deeply interesting and most delicate nature. He said that he alluded to the Message of the President, of the 12th inst., responding to a request contained in a resolution of the Senate, in relation to a paper purporting to be published by his authority, in reference to the deposits. Next to the grave and novel occurrence requiring this notice, he said, he most regretted that the duty had devolved upon him to invite to it the consideration of the Senate. He had delayed taking this course for several days, hoping that some other Senator would conquer the repugnance so natural and so inevitable, in the discharge of a duty so delicate and so painful. That he had hoped that some notice of the subject would have proceeded from a different quarter. But his hopes in this respect not being realized, and as he was one of those who voted for the resolution alluded to, he felt it proper and necessary to take this course.

The subject involves high and grave matter, not in reference to the character of the information sought, for that is comparatively of utter insignificance; but as touching the constitutional rights of the Executive and of the Senate, and what, among gentlemen, can be considered as of but little less consequence, that high courtesy and mutual respect so essential to the harmonious action and efficient co-operation of the different departments in our political system.

That the Senate should, at any time, through inadvertence, or any other cause, attempt an invasion of the constitutional rights of the Executive, or prove deficient in a high and manly courtesy, would present an occasion of the profoundest regret to every lover of our institutions. That the Senate did not regard the proceeding as, in any respect, transcending the just and legitimate rights conferred by the Constitution upon this body, and sanctioned by a long usage, he supposed equally manifest and unquestionable. For himself, he did not dream that, by his vote, he was encroaching upon the rights of the Executive, or in any wise manifesting the slightest disrespect to that co-ordinate branch of the Government. He should have been, in the simplicity of his heart, at an entire loss to conceive of any very specious ground upon which the application could have been resisted. A due respect, however, to the opinion entertained by the Executive, did, in his judgment, require a prompt review of the whole proceeding, with a calm and dispassionate deliberation. Any exhibition of temper, on the part of the Senate, would be as incompatible with its dignity, as it would be revolting to the good taste of the country. He trusted the Senate was wholly incapable of feeling any.

If the Senate had erred, it was magnanimous, it was their imperious duty, instantly to retract the error. It was due alike to the Executive, to our institutions, and above all, to ourselves.

If, however, after a calm and deliberate re-examination of our proceeding, we shall find nothing to retract; but if, on the contrary, we shall feel reassured that we have exercised none but the clear and unquestionable constitutional rights of the Senate, it will be equally our duty, however painful may be the conflict of opinion, to reassert and maintain with dignity, and with firmness, the constitutional rights of that body.

The framers of our system wisely saw, that power must be broken into fragments, or resolved into its simplest elements, and distributed among the different departments with deep sagacity, and a wise caution, to secure the harmonious and successful action of the Whole. They foresaw the tendency, deeply impressed upon the nature of every political system, to the accumulation and concentration of power at a single point. They foresaw that a perpetual vigilance over the power assigned to each department, was the only condition on which liberty could be preserved. Hence every intelligent friend of our system should be as reluctant to invade the rightful powers of the Executive, as he should be prompt to resist the encroachments of the Executive upon the clear constitutional rights of the Senate. To do the one or submit to the other, would be equally a breach of that high and sacred trust, devolved upon us under the most impressive and solemn sanctions.

All questions of conflict of power, between co-ordinate branches of the Government, should be treated with the greatest caution, and the utmost delicacy. Yet, to define the boundary distinctly and satisfactorily is, in every aspect of it, highly desirable. In our political, as in the solar system, when every power is confined to its proper orbit, without tendency to infringe upon any other, order and beauty and harmony will be the certain result.

As the Senate can have no ambition to gratify, nor any conceivable motive, in usurping powers not assigned to it by the Constitution; so it can never forget, for an instant, the respect and courtesy which are due to the Executive. Even the enemies of the President—personal enemies, he trusted, he had none—but the political enemies of the President, must always feel a pride in being enabled to regard him, while the first Magistrate, as the first gentleman in the country; and most anxiously desire, that the whole of his official intercourse with his constitutional advisers shall be marked with "high and noble thought, situate in a heart of courtesy." The spectacle could not but be gratifying to the pride of every American citizen. The Senate, feeling and appreciating, as he believed, the value of such an example, would, on all occasions, be studious to avoid any exhibition of temper or violation of courtesy.

Entertaining the sentiments to which he had adverted, he regarded it as of the first importance that the Senate should review its whole proceeding with the most calm and dispassionate deliberation; that, if error shall be found, it was honorable, as well as matter of duty, to retract it instantly and promptly. If, on the contrary, the review shall add strength to their first impressions, honorable men would perceive that there was no alternative but to maintain, with dignity and with firmness, the high constitutional rights of the Senate.

He moved to take up the message, and refer it to a Select Committee, &c.

Mr. Mangum having stated seven as the number of the Committee, the Senate proceeded to ballot for the Committee, when the following members were elected: Messrs. Mangum, White, Forsyth, Ewing, Bibb, Southard, and Rives.

Mr. Forsyth then asked to be excused from serving on the committee.

Mr. Grundy objected.

Mr. Forsyth reminded the Senate of the awkwardness of the position in which he stood. The gentleman from North Carolina had made a motion that the Senate solemnly re-examine their own decision. He did not wish to re-examine his. The majority of the Senate who had voted for the resolution, might re-examine their proceeding, and determine for themselves. But he had voted against it, and his opinion was unchanged, and, as he believed, unchangeable. He had no desire to sit in judgment on the decisions of others.

Mr. Bibb expressed his hope that the Senator from Georgia would not be excused, and the question being taken, the Senate refused to excuse him.

Friday, December 20.—The Senate did not sit to day.

In the House of Representatives, Mr. Stewart submitted the following resolution, which, under a rule of the House, lies one day upon the table before being acted upon:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be directed to communicate to this House the reports of Cols. Albert and Kearney, and also the recent report of Capt. Wm. Gibbs McNeill, of the corps of Topographical Engineers, on the plan, construction, costs, and actual condition of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Mr. Whittlesey submitted the following resolution, which, under a rule of the House, lies one day upon the table before being acted upon:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War report to this House the survey of a canal from Pittsburgh to Akron, made by Col. James Kearney, with the estimates of the expenses of construction, accompanied with the maps and profiles.

From the National Intelligencer, of Dec. 21.

There has been a rumor in the city for a day or two past, said to be borne out by a private letter, of the failure of one of the Philadelphia Banks.—The following communication, which we find in the United States Gazette, states (what probably was the foundation of the rumor,) the fact, that a run was made the other day on one of these Banks:

MR. EDITOR—It is generally known that a run was made the other day upon one of our Philadelphia Banks, in specie; and it is also known that rumor said, though without the least foundation, she was unable to meet the sudden and unexpected demand upon her. What, Mr. Editor, do you think was the course pursued, at this critical moment, by the Chesnut street Leviathan—the oppressive United States Bank? Would you believe it, sir, that Bank stepped forward, and tendered a loan of fifty thousand dollars, in specie, to the said Bank? What will the power behind the throne at Washington think of this—what the community at large think? There can be but one opinion.—The Bank about which the rumor has been afloat, is in a sound and healthy condition—as much so, perhaps, as any other Bank in this city.

FAIR PLAY.

A correspondent of the United States Gazette, says:—"A gentleman connected with one of the many very useful manufactories in Philadelphia, in which female labor is extensively employed, assured me to day, that they were under the necessity of discharging 170 out of 220 girls, and 25 out of 40 men, from their employ."

The United States Bank.—The public have been led to infer from a statement which is going the rounds of the papers, that our merchants have been called on to pay a very large sum into the Branch Bank in this city, within a few months. We are authorized, from an authentic source, to say that the amount of the debt due from the citizens of Boston and its vicinity, to the Branch in this place, is larger at this time than it was on the 1st of August last, and that at no intermediate time has it been one hundred thousand dollars less. Within a few months there has become due in the southern and western cities, a large amount of bills drawn by merchants in this place, and discounted at the office here, which accounts for the reduction of the debt.—Boston paper.

From the New Orleans Bulletin.

MR. DUANE'S LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23, 1833.

"My Dear Sir: I duly received your letter. I was glad to hear from you, not only because assured of your safety amidst pestilence, but because I knew I could rely on the sincerity of all that you said—a conclusion rarely arrived at.

It is but too obvious, either that we misunderstood the qualities of Gen. Jackson's head, or else he has been wonderfully altered: on all cardinal questions agitated he has failed to be consistent; he promised purity in selections for office, yet few have been purely made; he professed to be a friend to domestic industry, yet he has done more than any body to prostrate it; he advocated a national governmental bank, and yet affects to dread a moneyed aristocracy; he complained of the corruption of one bank, and yet takes forty or fifty irresponsible paper circulating banks under the national wing; he has been for and against internal improvement; he denounced nullificaton, yet has of late been unsaying all that he said in his proclamation. In short, I do not believe he ever had fixed principles, or ever arrived at any result by the exercise of the mind—impulses and passions have ruled.

What I thus say, and very loosely say, does not originate in any resentment, but is dispassionately uttered. I have become, as you have remarked, a sort of object to which the public eye has for some time past been directed. My position is such, that I am not sustained by any faction, but obnoxious to all. I have resisted the President, and his friends denounce me—I am opposed to the U. S. Bank, and have no quarter to expect there: I am opposed to the State Banks, and am no favorite with them either. These three influences are now the most powerful; the real good of the country seems to be a secondary matter, so that I was put out of office for the same reason that Galileo was put in a dungeon, because he could not believe at will.

To give you a history of my connection with the administration, would require a small volume, I was asked to become Secretary of the Treasury so long ago as Dec. 4, 1832—was surprized at the offer—desired to evade it—was pressed by father and friends to accept—at last agreed on 30th January, 1833—gave up my business gradually—and entered office on the first of June—without any sort of intimation or stipulation. I had not been 24 hours in office, when I felt, as I wrote my father, my vessel on the breakers. I found that the President was in the hands of men whom I would not trust, personally: a contest at once began, the object of which was to drive me out of office, as the Globe called me "a refractory subordinate."—In short, I undertook to tell the President the truth, in the language of a freeman, rather than a courtier: the end of all was my removal from office, under aggravating circumstances. No doubt the whole will be devoloped by Congress, and you will then see a picture by no means calculated to elevate our institutions in the eyes of the world. It was desired, by many, particularly the partisans of the U. S. Bank, that I should at once 'write a book;' but I have preferred silence, until Congress shall act. If Congress shall make an inquiry, I may then deem it a duty to lift the curtain.

The state of things at present is this: The good of the country is no more thought of than if every thing ought to be left to chance. The factious schemes and pretensions of individuals seeking office, and of moneyed corporations struggling for the use of the public funds, are alone thought of or talked about: to promote the happiness of the people, or to promote the love of liberty elsewhere, by exhibiting its existence, is not the object of what we call leading men: their design is to rule and gratify avarice and ambition, by such combinations and distributions of duty or agency, as effect so great results in manufactures and mechanics. Speculation or scheming enters into all things.—If we had a single really free and able press, we might do some good, but we have not one!

I belong to no man or faction, and the newspapers are all controlled by one or the other. At Washington, my unwillingness to pull, as a well trained mule would, was a matter of surprize: moral courage at Washington is as scarce as liberty at Warsaw.

I am now at home, where I find no duplicity, no heartlessness, no sycophancy or adulation; and as humble as that home comparatively may be, it is beyond all doubt precious in my eyes, after what in four months I have witnessed. A few friends fully appreciate my course, but the mass are not allowed to know it. The President's presses are silent, if they do not falsify—and the opposition papers expect me to go over ere they do me full justice! They little know me, it seems."

The deposits of the public money in the Bank of the United States, produced the same benefit to every state bank and to every borrower from the state banks, that it did to the U. S. Bank and its immediate customers.

The State Banks, while the deposits were in the United States Bank, were allowed to be indebted to the latter institution many millions of dollars, in aggregate—and this indebtedness arose from the loans made by the State Banks to their own customers, and the U. S. Bank having the funds of the general government, could afford to retain the State Bank notes a long time, without returning them.—This it did do to country and city banks. Now it is compelled to return them at once, or may be so compelled by a demand from the U. S. Treasury, and consequently the local banks dare not discount, lest their notes should be returned to them at once, and the U. S. Bank cannot discount, lest the U. S. Treasury should find them without means to meet a draft, withdrawing the remainder of the deposits.—U. S. Gazette.

An adjourned meeting of the presidents of the banks was held yesterday morning at the bank of Pennsylvania. During the adjournment from the preceding day—when they had come to a mutual understanding to consult further with their colleague directors—they were prepared to consent to a memorial to Congress, requesting that body to permit the transferred deposits to continue in the state banks till expended by appropriations for government; but that from and after the 1st of January next, all government deposits should be made alone in the U. S. Bank.

Many of the presidents were authorized to sign this memorial. If the directors and president of the different banks—pursuing differently similar interests—are persuaded that such a course is preferable to allay the anxiety of the merchants, to restore public confidence, and resume the customary loans and discounts,—we submissively think that a memorial to the executive should precede one to the legislative government. We succumb to their opinion of the deposits, because we presume they are or should be better acquainted with the subject than we; but we would therefore suggest to them—if they would have their memorial succeed—to address the president first, and Congress afterwards. They are, perhaps, aware that Congress has no power whatever concerning the treasury, further than to order appropriations; but as to its depository, that is wholly in the control of the Executive. The clause requiring the Secretary to assign his reasons to Congress for removing the deposits from the U. S. Bank, is a matter of mere form or courtesy: for Congress is not impowered to pursue any action on these reasons or removals further than impeachment, &c.—American Sentinel.

We have heard it surmised that the President of the United States, seeing how egregiously he has erred in the subject of a removal of the deposits, and having decided to remove them on the report of his spies—which report turns out to be illusory, and false—is considering whether justice to an injured institution, and an outraged people, does not demand of him frankly to say he was deceived in those in whom he placed confidence, and give them up to the ignominy which belongs to such conduct, and to the contempt of an outraged and suffering people.

We think the President has a fair opening to redeem himself by such a course.—Com. Her.

The Finances.—The Annual Report of the Secretary of the Treasury was yesterday sent to the two Houses of Congress.

The Receipts into the Treasury during the three first quarters of this year are estimated at $24,355,317; the Receipts for the fourth quarter are estimated at $7,675,000; making the total revenue for the year 1833, $32,030,317.

The Expenditures of the first three quarters of the present year are estimated at $18,248,388. The Expenditures for the fourth quarter, including $2,301,716 on account of the Public Debt, are estimated at $6,409,916; making a total expenditure within the year of $24,658,304.

The estimated balance which will be in the Treasury on the 1st day of January next, (including $1,400,000 unavailable funds, heretofore reported, and also including more than five millions of dollars of unexpended appropriations) is estimated at $9,383,790.

The estimate for 1834 is that, after the entire extinction of the Public Debt, during the year, there will be in the Treasury, on the first day of July, 1835, a balance of $2,981,796. (Including, of course, though the report does not say so, the old sum of 1,400,000 of unavailable funds, produced by the derangement of the currency of the country, anterior to the establishment of the Bank of the United States.)—Nat. Intel.

It was, on motion,

Resolved, That in the present state of pressure in the money market, it would be inexpedient to commence collection.

Ohio Canal.—From the collector of tolls, on the canal at Cleveland, the following information has been received, under date of Nov. 6, 1833.

"The amount of tolls collected at this office during the present year, up to the first instant, is forty four thousand and sixty nine dollars; up to the 1st of November, last year, the amount was twenty five thousand nine hundred and thirty six dollars and forty four cents. The amount collected at this office, the present year, up to last evening, is forty five thousand nine hundred and thirty five dollars. The amount which will be received at Cleveland, the present year, will probably exceed fifty thousand dollars; last year it amounted to thirty one thousand seven hundred and ten dollars and fifty cents."—Your committee have not been able to obtain information from any other collector.

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8, 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land containing		330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
other lots, containing about			6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints. Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradually increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

TYPE FOUNDRY.

HAVING purchased of Mr. Richard Ronaldson, his long established and very extensive Type Foundry, the subscribers have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of continuing said business, and for the convenience of their friends and patrons, have removed their establishment to a more central part of the city. As it is their intention to keep on hand a good assortment of the best type, and to make such additions and improvements as the taste of the trade and the wants of the country require, they flatter themselves that this establishment will merit a large share of patronage. They have now several founts on hand, which can be furnished at a few hours' notice, and are prepared to make founts of all weights and sizes, from Pearl to 22 lines Pica, including a variety of Ornamental Letter. Their assortment of Cuts, Dashes, Brass Rule, and other Ornaments, will be found to be very extensive, of which specimens will be forwarded to Printers as soon as they can be prepared.

Printing Presses of every description, Printing Ink of the most approved qualities, Composing Sticks, Brass and Common Galleys, Chases, Imposing Stones, Cases, Paper and Press Boards, Standing Presses, Furniture, together with a complete assortment of all articles used in a Printing Office, will be kept constantly on hand.

Small founts, suitable for Book Binders, in great variety, may be had when called for.

Orders from all parts in the Union will be promptly and most carefully attended to, and particularly in supplying sorts for all founts furnished by their predecessors, Binny & Ronaldson, and Richard Ronaldson.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
